Power

We wanted to go back to basics; to architecture and the built environment. How can we architects operationalise our desire for greater equality, and diversity in our professional and civic lives? With what tools can we be most effective in the built and unbuilt environment to achieve those goals? What are the unknown unknowns which we need to know in order to do so? For this series of 7 Questions, we invite people working on space, on housing, on Zurich, from adjacent fields to architecture. Through the questions raised by our speakers we aim to deepen our knowledge of the conditions affecting the city in which we live, study, and work. We asked them to speak about how power operates in their field. How to be more effective.
